

Dear Parents:

You may have attended science camp when you were young. If you grew up in the San Jose area, chances are you went to Redwood Glen. It is the same incredible program your child is about to attend, renamed Walden West Outdoor School.

Perhaps you remember the impact the program had on your life and would like to support the outdoor school in its effort to provide environmental and science education to children of Santa Clara Valley.

The Walden West Outdoor School Foundation has embarked on a massive fund-raising effort to renovate the Walden West Center. Thanks to their efforts and your generosity, a lodge that provides a large eating and gathering area as well as a place to stay warm during rainy weather was recently opened. Next in the renovation plan is to:

- Build new cabins with bathrooms and shower.
- Build a "green" constructed science lab that will allow Walden West to provide half- and full-day programs to all Santa Clara County students grades K-12.

Keep this letter until your child returns from outdoor school. If Walden West had as big an impact on him/her as it does most children, consider donating to help Walden West provide better services to those who attend and to further the Foundation's effort to bring science and environmental education to every child in the county.

Walden West Outdoor School lasts a week, the impact lasts a lifetime.
